

Questionnaires

Your list of survey forms is below. Use the buttons to send each respondent an email that gives the URL to access the questionnaire. Form number 1 will be your own, and you must be the first respondent in this exercise. Even if you can answer directly from this page, please first use the email link. This gives you the respondents' point of view, the questionnaire, which lets you understand their situation. Later you will complete also all other forms through the links on this page, having the researcher's point of view, the survey form.

When the URL has been sent or the form has been modified, the date of sending or last change is displayed. Once you modify the form through this page, the respondent will no longer be able to edit it unless you resend the URL. Viewing a form without saving it will not cause this. So, you can investigate the researcher's point of view from any of the links. There are five links, but full score in the exercise only requires three interviews. You can send the extra ones if you are interested in doing this kind of work and also in case you doubt some respondents may not complete their part of the work. Please don't send the same form to different persons.

Form 1	Send the link
Form 2	Send the link
Form 3	Send the link
Form 4	Send the link
Form 5	Send the link

Respondent's email address:

Pseudonym for the respondent:

The pseudonym does not show to the respondent. It is a reminder for yourself of who the respondent is. You can change it, but it stays the same, if you leave the field empty when you send the same form link again. Besides at a request from the respondent, you may need to resend if you have misspelled the email address, or if you must change the respondent completely. In the latter case be sure the form is empty.

The percentage for a form will turn green already at about 90, and this exercise starts showing one more point in your profile. This percentage only works if it has been possible to skip all conditional questions. This is possible and perfectly ok but in reality hardly ever happens. So take the colours only as an indication of progress.